Mayor's welcome

With the weather heating up so too does the Town's events calendar with the likes of A Night on Bay View (pages 4-5) and Carols in the Park.

The week of Remembrance Day saw red and purple poppies pop up around Baxter the Good Luck Bulldog to support the fallen soldiers and animals. Town of Claremont staff and members of the public paid their respects at a Remembrance Day ceremony (page 3).

Explore the beauty of Lake Claremont and take a self-guided tour with the Lake Claremont Story Map developed by Millennium Kids and the Friends of Lake Claremont (page 2).

As part of the fight against the Polyphagous shot-hole borer, greening initiatives have been launched to help residents who have seen their trees be affected by these beetles (page 9).

On behalf of my fellow elected members, I wish you all a safe and happy Christmas and New Year.

Best wishes

Mayor Peter Telford

Splash of colour

Now in its third year, the Youth Mural Mentorship has seen walls come to life across our Town at Rowe Park and the Bay View Community Centre.

The Claremont Aquatic Centre front façade is now set to be transformed as the chosen location for next installment of this artistic program.

A lucky mentee will be joined by an experienced mural artist to learn the process and help create a new public art mural on the front entrance wall.

"The Aquatic Centre has hundreds of visitors a day, making this location a key focal point for a mural," Councillor Ryan Brown said.

"It is a deserving location, and this mural would be the very first public art piece at the popular Aquatic Centre."

"Art is an integral element of the Town's vision for Claremont's cultural identity, and I'm pleased that it will enhance this area with the input of a young local artist," Cr Brown added.

How to apply

Residents aged between 16 – 25 years old are encouraged to apply.

The successful person will be paid a Mentee Artist Fee of $1,000 (ex GST) for their contribution to the creation of the new public artwork mural.

The project is planned to start on or before March 2026. Submissions for the 2026 program close Wednesday 14 January 2026 at 4pm.

For further information visit our website here.

Upgrading your experience

Ready for you to enjoy as the weather heats up, the male and female changerooms refurbishment is nearing completion and will see all changerooms ready for use in early December.

Bookings and memberships are now available online! Plus, the café and swim shop is restocked with new items to enhance your next visit.

Local kids love the lake

The thriving ecosystem has a story to tell.

Developed by Millennium Kids and Friends of Lake Claremont, the Lake Claremont Story Map is a self-guided tour that invites visitors to follow points of interest on their personal devices that lead them to areas around the lake.

The core vision behind Millennium Kids' work is "Co-creating a future where young people's voices shape the way we care for local places."

Points of interest on the story map include sights such as the painted blue tree that supports the Blue Tree Project initiative and the Bird Watching Gazebo.

While following the map, keep an eye out for the abundant birdlife.

The Lake is home to over 80 species of birds as well as other wildlife including the Snake-Necked Turtle.

Partakers will also learn about important threats the lake and its habitants face including Polyphagous shot-hole borer and rat baiting.

With 21 points of interest to visit and read about, the Lake Claremont Story Map is educating the next generation on the importance the lake has on the Claremont community.

"It is a great way for the upcoming generation to learn about Lake Claremont and how to protect it both now and for years to come," Councillor Annette Suann said.

"Millennium Kids' involvement at the Lake has resulted in a higher attendance of youth attending the Friends of Lake Claremont Busy Bees on the weekends," Cr Suann added.

Scan the code, take a walk and follow the points of interest on your device.

Discover why Lake Claremont is such a special place to protect and enjoy.

for granted.”*

Lest We Forget

Red poppies are a common occurrence on Remembrance Day to honour those who died in wars, conflicts and peacekeeping operations.

What many may not know is that purple poppies are used to remember all the service animals such as dogs, horses and pigeons that died during conflict.

The purple poppy was introduced to Australia in 2013 by the Australian War Animal Memorial Organisation and can be worn alongside the traditional red poppy.

To serve as a visual reminder of the sacrifices made by both humans and animals, 100 wooden red and purple poppies were installed around the Town’s public art piece, Baxter the Good Luck Bulldog.

These poppies were created by the Claremont Showgrounds Community Men’s Shed and painted by children from the Bright Beginnings Child Care Centre, Bay View Community Centre Crafternooners groups and the Town staff.

“Displaying both the red and purple poppies around Baxter is a way to acknowledge the service men, women and animals who gave their lives in war, conflicts and peacekeeping efforts,” Cr Ryan Fernandes said. “We don’t take their sacrifices for granted.”

The Town holds a Remembrance Day ceremony on 11 November every year at the War Memorial on Stirling Highway.

Soprano Lorina Gore

Love is in the air

Expect a magical evening of music under the stars with friends and family when the West Australian Symphony Orchestra (WASO) returns to Claremont Park for A Night on Bay View.

On Saturday 14 February – Valentine’s Day – be swept away in the romance of Tchaikovsky’s Waltz of the Flowers, the fiery passion of Bizet’s Carmen, and the enchantment of musical scores from The Phantom of the Opera and Beauty and the Beast.

The angelic voice of Australian soprano Lorina Gore will feature on the night, marking her first appearance at A Night on Bay View and she couldn’t be more excited.

“This will be my first appearance at this special concert, and I absolutely love outdoor events,” Lorina said.

“There’s nothing quite like the atmosphere on a balmy night; the audience relaxing with food and drink, and the little ones running around and having fun.

“It’s a very different and more relaxed experience for an audience than an indoor seated concert,” she added.

Music and singing have been a part of Lorina’s life for as long as she can remember, and she has performed in operas all over the globe including in Australia, New Zealand, China and England.

“I’ve always loved music, and I remember as a young girl always learning and singing along to absolutely everything that I would hear on the radio,” she said.

“As a schoolgirl I was fortunate enough to see a performance of the musical 42nd Street, and from then on, I was hooked. There was nothing else I’ve ever wanted to do for my job, except to sing,” she added.

No stranger to being in the limelight, Lorina says there’s something magical to be found in every performance.

There’s nothing quite as meaningful as a live performance,” Lorina said.

“I always know that there’s someone in the audience who might be hearing music like this, with a live orchestra, for the very first time. It’s wonderful to know you’re providing something to people that is meaningful and joyful,” she added.

With a range of musical styles on offer for concertgoers, there’s a little bit of something for everyone at A Night on Bay View.

“The program is going to be lots of fun, and it has a bit of everything in it, some well-known tunes, a little bit of classical, along with some popular songs too,” Lorina said.

The West Australian Symphony Orchestra will hit the stage at 7.00pm with food and drinks available for purchase from one of the many food trucks from 6.00pm.

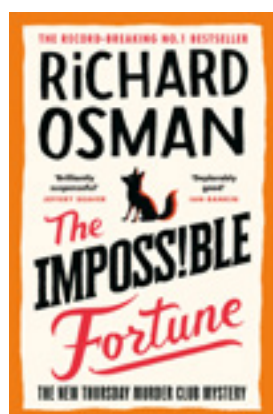

WASO will also feature at the annual Carols in the Park at Claremont Park on Saturday 13 December, 4.30pm-8.00pm. Visit claremont.wa.gov.au for more info.

Summer reads

Summer is around the corner, and as the weather heats up, why not take a seat in the shade, and relax with a book? Our Bay View Community Centre Librarians recommend the following great titles over the summer break, all available through our express reads.

From the author of “The Women” and “The Nightingale”, Ruby Bridge is a not-too-successful comedienne who uses her mother, a nationally syndicated “moral and spiritual counsellor” as the main fodder for her cynical, rather bitter humour. Her mother Nora, long divorced from Ruby’s father, is a woman whose past is just about to catch up with her. After an accident, Ruby returns to care for her stricken mother – bitterly resenting the fact that once again her mother’s life has colonized hers. A touching story about the power of love through healing and forgiveness.

Joyce is busy with table plans and first dances for the wedding. Elizabeth is grieving. Ron is dealing with family troubles, and Ibrahim is still providing therapy to his favourite criminal. But when Elizabeth meets a wedding guest who’s in trouble, kidnap and death are hot on their heels once more. The latest book from the Thursday Murder Club series, and one of our most highly requested items.

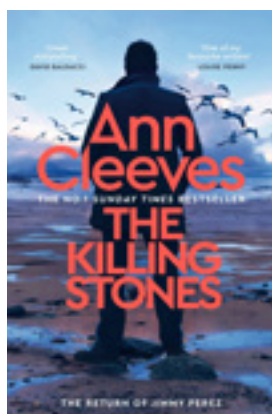

Spanning thirty-five years, Florence Knapp’s debut novel explores three alternate paths, all based on one single decision – the name of Cora’s newborn son. Her terrifying and controlling husband wants to follow tradition, naming him Gordon, after himself. Cora has Julian in mind, and her 9-year-old daughter Maia offers up her own suggestion: Bear. The novel explores domestic abuse, the messy ties of family, and the possibilities of autonomy and healing.

They called it murder. She called it justice. In 1954, 14-year-old Mabel Waller was Australia’s youngest convicted killer. In 2025, on a quiet Melbourne lane, an elderly man is found dead by his neighbour, 81-year-old Elsie Fitzpatrick. No one suspects any foul play. Until they discover Elsie’s past. In the 1950s, her name was not Elsie. It was Mabel. She is known around the world as Mad Mabel. But is she mad? More importantly, is she guilty?

From the bestselling author of “Exiles” and “The Dry” comes a captivating new novel set in a modern ghost town. Ro Crowley waits for her son on the evening of his 21st birthday. But Sam never comes home. Five long years later, Ro returns for the annual memorial of Sam’s disappearance. The skeletal community is now an echo of itself, having fractured under the pressure of the coal mine operating on its outskirts. But Ro still wants answers. Only a few people remain. If the truth is to be found in that town, does it lie among them?

Years after leaving Shetland, Detective Jimmy Perez lives in Orkney with his partner and family. When his oldest friend, Archie, vanishes, Perez travels to Westray. He finds Archie dead at a dig site, a story stone beside him, clearly the weapon. As Perez investigates, personal ties and island secrets blur the line between truth and loyalty.

Express Reads

All the featured titles are part of the “Express Reads” program. These are novels that are a specially curated collection of new and high-demand books available for a one-week loan period. A fur-ever friend: Summer survival tips

As temperatures rise, it is a timely reminder to be aware of the effects heat can have on our furry friends.

David Metcalf from Agile Dogs suggests following these tips:

- Be aware of your dog's water bowls and check them frequently. Have multiple water bowls around the house in case one empties or gets knocked over.
- Bring your dog inside and provide a cool environment.
- Exercise in the early mornings or evenings. Avoid walking on hot pavement and roads in the heat of the day.
- Provide options for shade and ensure your dog utilises this as some dogs may not seek out these cooler areas independently.

- Provide wading pools such as eggshell baths filled with water. Ensure your dog finds shade afterwards and doesn't heat up in the sun.
- Use pet sunscreen around the nose particularly for dogs with fairer skin and short coats.
- Provide ice block licks and frozen treats to cool your dog down and keep them occupied.
- Keep an eye on the weather and monitor temperature regularly.

The summer heat can lead to multiple health issues including heat stroke and heat stress. If your dog displays any symptoms, seek veterinary care immediately.

"With the hot summer weather fast approaching it's important to ensure our furry friends are well looked after," Cr Sara Franklyn said.

"Particularly dogs with heavy coats are best exercised in temperatures lower than 26C, unless they can chill down in water" Cr Sara Franklyn added.

"Cool comfort, plenty of water and a watchful eye will keep loyal companions happy and healthy this summer," Cr Franklyn added.

Cool for Cats

A catio is a fully enclosed space that allows cats to be outdoors in a contained area. These areas work to provide your feline with a safe enriching space as well as protecting native wildlife within the Town of Claremont area.

The Town's Catio Grant Program offers Claremont residents up to $500 to install a catio.

Town of Claremont staff adopted their own tree from fundraising efforts.

Tree rebates

Two urban greening initiatives have been launched to support people who have lost trees due to the Polyphagous shot-hole borer (PSHB).

For Western Australians impacted by the PSHB, the WA Tree Recovery Program is offering rebates to replace trees lost to the PSHB, with eligible landowners able to claim up to $150 for every tree removed under authorisation by the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development.

Residents can claim both rebates through the ServiceWA app or via postal and webform platforms.

Adopt a tree

The Town of Claremont's 'Adopt a Tree' program is an initiative to help support restoration efforts across the Town and enhance the overall health of the planet.

This program aims to help restore the Town's tree canopy as the Polyphagous shot-hole borer continues to wreak havoc on Perth's trees and preserve the beauty that defines Claremont.

Applicants can choose from five varieties of native trees which can be planted at Lake Claremont, Jean and John Mulder Park, Stirling Road Park and Claremont Park. A plaque can also be purchased with the tree, with many opting to dedicated it to a loved family member or pet.

"The Town of Claremont is proud of its urban tree canopy and initiatives such as this ensures Claremont remains one of Western Australia's leafiest urban councils," Cr Paul Kelly said.

"Our residents are very passionate about trees and keeping the Town green, so we encourage everyone to adopt a tree and watch as it flourishes and becomes a part of the Town's tree canopy," Cr Kelly added.

Trees are planted in winter yearly (June to August) with applications for the 2026 season closing 30 April 2026.

Scan the QR code for more information on the Town's Adopt a Tree initiative and to apply for your own tree.

From humble beginnings to a well-loved fashion event

More than 60 years ago, a group of friends decided to sell their old clothes to support the Australian Red Cross and those most in need.

Little did they know, this would become one of Perth's premier clothing fundraising events, selling designer, vintage, preloved and new fashion for women, men and children.

Starting in a garage on Bindaring Parade in Claremont, the Bindaring Clothing Sale has raised over $3.2 million for the Australian Red Cross since 1963.

Growing up during the war, founder of the clothing sale Jane Morrison wanted to be a "doer" and not just raise money.

"We started by sorting our dresses in a garage and selling at local churches, town halls in Perth and Fremantle and with the support of the Royal Agricultural Society/ Claremont Showground and W.A. Showbags we were able to host our sale for the past 34 years," she said.

While not as much at the forefront as she used to be, Jane still gives her time to the event every year and helps clean the clothes for sale.

"I was the first President for a while and then I became the head of the cleaning department because I liked the challenge," Jane said.

"I am still the cleaner and help throughout the year, in particular I spot clean the beautiful designer and high-quality clothes that would otherwise end up being sent for rags."

Over the years, the Bindaring Clothing Sale has raised funds for a new soup patrol van, vehicles for youth education services, disaster and emergency services, and training programs.

Jane is proud of the reach of the sale and didn't think this level of success would be possible when it first started.

"It has become what it is today by evolving and trying new things which have been successful, from starting in a garage to now being in an enormous pavilion," Jane said.

"I do hope that our legacy will continue, you could say we were the trailblazers who have been cleaning, mending and re-loving clothes for over 60 years, long before it became a trend."

The Bindaring sale has an impressive rate of 98.5%, meaning nearly all donated clothes find a new home and don't end up in landfill.

Cr Jill Goetze encouraged people to donate and attend the sale, "Donating your clothes to a cause like this is a great way to ensure perfectly good pieces of clothing don't end up in landfill, instead finding a new home."

The next Bindaring Clothing Sale is on Saturday 16 May 2026 at the Claremont Showground. Entry is free. For parking options and further information, head to their website.

Exploring home energy savings

The Town is excited to be partnering with Switch Your Thinking to deliver their Energy Efficiency Program.

This program will help to save energy, lower power bills and reduce environmental impacts. These energy kits are free-to-loan and are now available at the Claremont Library.

Each energy audit kit includes:

- A thermal imaging camera to help you locate draughts around your home and gaps in insulation, for checking fridge seals and measuring hot water temperature.
- A plug-in energy monitor for measuring energy consumption and the running costs of appliances.
- A basin flow measuring cup to determine the water flow rate of your taps.

- A thermometer for measuring the temperature of rooms, fridges and freezers.
- An instructional manual which explains how to conduct a variety of tests, tips to reduce your energy and water use, instructions on how to use the equipment and safety information. Many kits will also contain information and resources specific to your local area.

“We have a strong commitment to sustainability and this collaboration will help residents lower the costs and help the environment which aligns to our community’s values and aspirations,” Cr Kate Main said.

Take a walk through Claremont's art scene

From vibrant murals to impressive sculptures, Claremont is home to a variety of artwork.

The Claremont Town Centre Art Trail is a self-guided walking trail through the heart of Claremont.

With 14 pieces of art to view, the trail is the perfect activity whether you are an art connoisseur or looking for a leisurely activity.

The trail is encouraged to be completed by walking or by bicycle and can be completed in approximately one hour.

"It is a lovely walk for everyone to enjoy while taking in the pieces of art that define Claremont," Councillor Graham Cameron said.

"Once you've completed the Town Centre Art Trail, reward yourself by enjoying a refreshment at one of the many local cafés along the way," he added.

Some iconic pieces of art include Good Luck Bulldog by Steven Buckles in Claremont Park and Road to Nowhere by Fintan Magee located on Walt Drabble Lane.

The Claremont Town Centre Art Trail map can be viewed and downloaded via the Town of Claremont website along with two other art trails to explore within the Town.
